4. On August 29, 2008 Bradley Logan was working as an emergency room physician at the Norton Sound Regional Hospital, operated by the Norton Sound Health Corporation and provided medical services to Plaintiff.

5. Plaintiff presented to Dr. Logan at Norton Sound Regional Hospital with sudden onset of substantial vision loss on one side affecting both eyes, sudden stabbing eye pain, disorientation, nausea and a never before experienced severe headache.

6. Despite Plaintiff presenting with several medical risk factors, informing Defendant Dr. Logan that he rarely experienced headaches and never had a migraine headache in his lifetime, Dr. Logan misdiagnosed the Plaintiff as suffering from an atypical headache and sent Plaintiff home with instructions to rest until feeling better.

7. After not feeling better, Plaintiff traveled to Anchorage where he sought other medical assistance and was properly diagnosed on August 30, 2008 as having suffered an ischemic stroke.

8. The Defendants failed to exercise the required degree of medical care for a physician in Nome, Alaska as required by A.S. 09.55.540 and Plaintiff did not receive appropriate treatment for his medical condition by Defendants Logan and Norton Sound Health Corporation.

9. The Defendants were negligent and their negligence was a legal cause of the Plaintiff's harm.

COMPLAINT

Helms v. Bradley Logan, M.D. and Norton Sound Health Corporation
